Quite often, we are women in tough situations, trying to do our with stepchildren who resent us and partners who are likely to minimize the problems we face and perhaps even undermine our efforts. But we are something else as well, something more. Being a stepmother means being part person and part icon, living on the edge of what is and what is real. You’re not my mother! It seems the child has a need to the stepmother, and to make it very clear that she is an outsider and not reallyof the family.The phase of rejection of the stepmom is real, and can be an indication of her becoming the “evil stepmother” if two things happen: If the stepmom takes the rejection personally; and if her husband does not back her upmake it clear to thethat she is in the family to stay. Once that fact is by the child, a relationship can begin to be built. But it remains true that you are not his or her....., and will never have that same relation.
