

Put the words in brackets in the right tense or form!

Education is a must nowadays. It's (crucial) crucially important, because not only (it/have) does it have an effect on your social and economic status but it also ensures the economic (prosper) prosperity of your country and helps you to catch up with (develop) developed countries. Don't be brainless! It's high time you (understand) understood that it's education which helps you secure a thriving and (flourish) flourishing future for you, your children as well as your country. It's education which will (light) enlighten your mind and save you from such (wretched) wretchedness. Believe me education is your only weapon to fight against poverty and (literate) illiteracy. It's the backbone of your life. Without any doubt you really ought (send) to send your children to school and in the long run you (see) will see that illiteracy was a setback to your children's future.

It's the root of all evil. If I were you, I (go) would go to the ends of the earth for the sake of education because I know that it's importance is (questionable) unquestionable. Eventually you have to send your children to school right away to (able) enable them to unlock job opportunities and lead a better life.

